About the trip

Two days from Paris, with a guided visit to Mont Saint-Michel and three castles in the Loire Valley: Langeais, Chenonceau and Chambord. The night is in Angers, with an air-conditioned coach and a bilingual guide.

What you will experience

- Guided visit to Mont Saint-Michel, from the King's Gate and the Grande Rue to the Benedictine abbey
- Château de Langeais, with wax figures that tell the story of medieval life
- Chenonceau Castle, a Renaissance work over the Cher River, the Château des Dames
- Inside Chambord with the guide, from the double-helix staircase to the panoramic terrace

Day by day

1

DAY 1

PARIS / MONT SAINT-MICHEL / ANGERS

Departure at 7:15 am from central Paris, toward the Normandy motorway, for the guided visit to Mont Saint-Michel, which marks the border between the regions of Normandy and Brittany. See the "Wonder of the West", which rises on a rocky promontory from the Middle Ages, surrounded by a beautiful bay. At the entrance is the King's Gate, with a drawbridge, leading to the Grande Rue, the street with the main museums, shops and medieval houses. The climb up the Grand Degré, the staircase, reaches the 8th-century Benedictine abbey. Free time to try crepes and buy souvenirs. We continue to Angers. Accommodation.

ANGERS / LANGEAIS / CHENONCEAU / CHAMBORD / PARIS

Breakfast. Departure through the Loire Valley. The first visit is to the Château de Langeais, a very well preserved fortified castle, where highly realistic wax figures depict daily life in the medieval era and tell the history of France. We continue to Chenonceau Castle. Its architecture, furniture, history and gardens make it one of the most popular castles in France. A Renaissance masterpiece spanning the River Cher, it is also known as the "Château des Dames", because it was built and renovated over many years by famous women of French history, among them Diane de Poitiers and Catherine de' Medici. Lunch. We continue to Chambord, the largest of the Loire castles. Priority access to the interior. The guide takes the group through some rooms of the castle and up the famous "double-helix staircase" to the large panoramic terrace, overlooking the park, while explaining the history of the castle, built during the reign of Francis I. Return to Paris, arriving at about 8 pm. End of services.
