Olympia was the most important sanctuary of the ancient Greeks, a place of worship of Zeus, the first among the gods, in whose honor the Olympic Games were held. The importance of these games is clear from the large participation of the Greek cities, which kept a truce while the celebration lasted, and from the fact that the Olympiad, the four-year period between two games, was recognized as the only chronological system accepted throughout Greece. Visit to the Olympia Museum. In the afternoon, we cross the new suspension bridge and arrive in Delphi. Dinner and accommodation.

DAY 5

DELPHI-ATHENS (182 KM)

Departure for Athens, passing through the village of Arachova, east of Delphi, 960 meters above sea level. In the winter months, tourism increases because of the nearby ski resort on Mount Parnassus. The village is famous for its textile industry and handicrafts. On the way back, we pass the surroundings of Livadeia and Thebes. Arrival in Athens. Accommodation.
