- Free time in Honfleur and the D-Day beaches, with the American cemetery at Colleville-sur-Mer
- Arromanches beach, with the remains of the D-Day artificial harbor
- Saint-Malo and Mont Saint-Michel, with its Benedictine abbey over the bay
- Château de Langeais and Chenonceau Castle, over the Cher River
- Inside Chambord with the guide, from the double-helix staircase to the panoramic terrace

Day by day

1

PARIS / ROUEN / HONFLEUR / CAEN

Departure at 7:15 am on the Normandy motorway, toward Rouen. Walking tour of the historic center, with Notre-Dame Cathedral, the Great Clock, half-timbered houses and medieval pedestrian streets. The city inspired many Impressionist painters, such as Monet. We continue to Honfleur, with free time in this typical port town. Along the Norman coast, the group reaches the best-known D-Day beaches, where the Allies landed on June 6, 1944. A moment of reflection at the American cemetery in Colleville-sur-Mer, near Omaha Beach. Stop at Arromanches beach, which preserves the remains of the pontoons of the artificial harbor built in England and towed there to support the landing, despite the force of the sea. Arrival in Caen. Dinner and accommodation.

2

CAEN / SAINT-MALO / MONT SAINT-MICHEL / ANGERS

Breakfast. Departure for Saint-Malo, to see the ramparts, the Castle, St. Vincent Cathedral or the National Fort, a city of great historical heritage. Free time. We continue to Mont Saint-Michel, which rises on a rocky promontory and is surrounded by a beautiful bay. The 8th-century Benedictine abbey is a Gothic marvel, with a cloister and a garden with panoramic views of the sea. Free time. We continue to Angers. Accommodation.

3

ANGERS / LANGEAIS / CHENONCEAU / CHAMBORD / PARIS

Breakfast. Departure through the Loire Valley. The first visit is to the Château de Langeais, a very well preserved fortified castle, where highly realistic wax figures depict daily life in the medieval era and tell the history of France. We continue to Chenonceau Castle. Its architecture, furniture, history and gardens make it one of the most popular castles in France. A Renaissance masterpiece spanning the River Cher, it is also known as the "Château des Dames", because it was built and renovated over many years by famous women of French history, among them Diane de Poitiers and Catherine de' Medici. Free time for lunch. We continue to Chambord, the largest of the Loire castles. Priority access to the interior. The guide takes the group through some rooms of the castle and up the famous "double-helix staircase" to the large panoramic terrace, overlooking the park, while explaining the history of the castle, built during the reign of Francis I. Return to Paris, arriving at about 8 pm. End of services.
